

Have cold one on brewery tour

Kathy Strong

Going My Way

It is the new hot spot for a "cold one." North San Diego, a short drive from the desert, is now home to more than 30 award-winning microbreweries offering a bounty of beer-related activities from festivals and food and beer pairing events to behind-the-scenes tours.

Escondido-based Stone Brewing World Bistro & Gardens, with its distinctive gargoyle mascot, is recognized as one of the nation's best breweries, producing more than 50,000 barrels of beer annually. The 55,000-square-foot brewery with distinctive architecture and ambience is lifting beer tasting to new levels. Visitors enjoy a fresh, organic menu in the bistro paired with signature beers known for bold and aggressive flavors. The Stone Brew pub is the site of regular tastings and tours, as well as interactive classes that transform visitors into beer connoisseurs.

Northern San Diego's other breweries include San Marcos-based Port Brewing Company and the Lost Abbey, which has been named one of the top 10 brewers in the world by RateBeer.com.

Vista is home to Green Flash Brewing Company, known for its all-natural ingredients in its hand-crafted brews that are produced in small batches to ensure freshness and quality. Ocean-side Ale Works is the city's first brewery and one of the few manual brew houses in the nation.

Poway's Lightning Brewery emphasizes the scientific side of beer making. Lightning is the only local beer maker to use the "step mashing" process to craft enhanced body and flavor.

To get the full microbrew experience, consider a tour that transports visitors to several local breweries. Choose a five-hour "Beer Connoisseur" tour that stops at four local microbreweries or the two-hour "Beer Tasters" tour, which includes two or three breweries.

Brewery Tours of San Diego features three touring packages, all with transportation, beer tastings and behind-the-scenes tours.
